

Religious Week at Mississippi Hits Trouble

UNIVERSITY, Miss. (AP) — The University of Mississippi today pondered the future of Religious Week after clergymen from three major faiths withdrew because of the "Kershaw incident."

Two Protestant ministers and a rabbi yesterday joined a Catholic priest in cancelling speaking engagements because the university revoked its invitation to the Rev. Mr. Alvin Kershaw of Oxford, Ohio, Episcopal minister and member of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People.

The committee sponsoring Religious Week will meet Monday to decide whether the program will be held on the campus Feb. 19-22.

The new cancellations wiped the slate of all out-of-state speakers. First to withdraw was the Rev. Joseph Fichter, S. J., sociologist at Loyola University of the South at New Orleans.

Joining him yesterday were: The Rev. Mr. George Chaucer, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Monticello, Ark.

The Rev. Mr. Joe Earl Elmore of Methodist student work at the University of Mississippi.

Rabbi Milton Grauman, Temple Emanuel at Birmingham, Ala.

New Rioting Greets Mollet Minister

BY PRESTON GROVER
ALGIERS (AP) — Robert Lacoste arrived today to become Premier Guy Mollet's resident minister in violence-torn Algeria. Fresh rioting was threatened both here and in France as nationalists and colonialists planned new demonstrations.

As Moslems flocked to their mosques to observe their Sabbath, French settlers defied an official ban and ordered a huge rally later in the day in the main city square. It was aimed at discouraging both French government peace efforts and Arab nationalist aspirations in the 15-month-old insurrection.

Officials had prohibited any parades or demonstrations but foes of Mollet-inflamed French war veterans, students and local mayors—formed an unofficial "Committee of Public Safety" and voted to hold a five-hour protest strike and march on the center of the divided capital.

Lacoste came in during a biting rain and a severe cold wave that authorities hoped would help dampen the Algerian demonstration. Foreign Legionnaires and mobile guardsmen were in reserve in an effort to prevent a repetition of last Monday's rioting, when a mob hurled stones, eggs and garbage at Mollet.

Behind the Algerian demonstrations was a movement obviously aimed at unseating Mollet's new regime.

Jean Baptiste Biaggi, Paris lawyer who leads a group of Algerian war veterans, took over two public meetings here yesterday and turned them into political rallies.

Enlisting the support of the war veterans, mayors and the powerful Public Safety Committee, Biaggi quickly touched off a popular demand for today's march.

The outward aim of Mollet's opposition is two-fold:

1. A warning to the French government that Algeria's European community will not accept peace negotiations leading to an increase of Moslem influence in the territory.

2. A warning to the Moslems not to press their nationalist claims too actively.

Suspect Given a Lie Test

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A young Negro, held for questioning in the fatal beating of a 60-year-old widow near Forest City, took a lie detector test at State Police headquarters here today.

At Forest City, Sheriff Carl Campbell said he had not yet been informed of the results of the test. St. Francis County deputies returned James Phillips Jr., 22, to Forest City from Little Rock today. He was brought here yesterday for the test.

El Dorado Voters Okay Bond Issue

EL DORADO (AP) — A $545,000 bond issue finance construction of a municipal auditorium was approved yesterday by city voters, who'll be rewarded by the building of a library at no cost to the public.

Members of the City Council have said that an "unidentified citizen" promised to guarantee erection of a city-county library if the auditorium bond issue was approved.

Papers on Royal Love Affair Removed

By STANLEY GODFREY

LONDON (AP) — The scandalous affair of King George IV and Queen Caroline took place 135 years ago but apparently someone in the royal family still was smarting over it in this century.

It has been disclosed that two red-taped bundles of state papers concerning this royal couple, their spites and their love lives, have been removed from the public records office. For over a century they had been available to anyone wishing to brush up on the doings of Britain's Hanoverian rulers.

There is speculation that King George V, grandfather of Queen Elizabeth II, had the papers removed to his private archives.

An intriguing point is that they were removed more than 20 years ago—and weren't missed.

The marriage of George IV—then ruling Britain as prince regent in place of his mad father George III—is one of the spiciest fragments of British history. It was a state marriage of convenience and he met his bride, Princess Caroline Emilia of Brunswick-Wolfenbuttel, only a few hours before the wedding.

They parted in 1796, just one year after the marriage and after the birth of a daughter, Princess Charlotte August.

George slipped easily back into his gay bachelor ways. Caroline toured Europe in a flare of gossip and intrigue. In 1820, when George took the throne, Caroline spurned an offer to stay abroad and renounce her claim to the queen's crown.

When she came back to London, George immediately filed for divorce, on the grounds of her adultery with a Italian nobleman. The divorce, on the grounds of her adultery with an Italian nobleman, the suit was hastily dropped when Caroline's counsel brought up the business of the King's girl friends during his regency days.

Caroline was locked out of Westminster Abbey for her coronation minister Abbey for her coronation and died a foreign lair—as queen of England.

According to custom, no bunhe royal pair were deposited in des of sac papers concernin he royal pair were deposited in he public records.

Their removal came a high when historian Hugh Ross Williamson asked o see hem.

"Sorry, sir, they were aken o Windsor (the royal sac residence) outside London in 1935," he was old.

The question was brought up in Piplamen, where a government spokesman explained they were private papers—and should have been in he public records office in he first place.

Fire Destroys a Slaughter House

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Flames, apparently ignited by defective wiring, destroyed a huge meat packing plant and slaughter house near here early today.

Herb Hollenworth, manager and part owner of the Brown Packing Co., estimated the firm loss at "more than $250,000." Hollenworth said the fire started in the attic of the big frame and concrete building. He said he believed that a defective electric wire started the fire.

The ten-year-old building was located a short distance west of Little Rock's city limits, and by the time Little Rock firemen received permission to go to the plant, the flames were out of control. Only one truck answered the call.

White Youths Try to Enroll at Dunbar

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Four white boys tried to enroll in Little Rock's Negro high school yesterday, apparently either as a prank or a protest over the recent unsuccessful effort of 33 Negro children to enroll in the city's white schools.

Dunbar High School Principal L. M. Christopher said he referred the boys to Supt. Virgil T. Blossom, but Blossom said the teenagers never showed up at his office.

Blossom said he was certain the boys did not represent an organized group. Mrs. L. C. Bates, state president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said the NAACP did not inspire the move.

The youths identified themselves to Dr. Christopher as Jimmie Emmett, Phillip Cate, Gerald Gordy and Jim Bowen Emmett and Cate were listed as students at Little Rock Central High School, but no records existed for Bowen and Gordy.

The NAACP filed suit in U. S. District Court here Wednesday demanding immediate racial integration of Little Rock's public schools. The action was taken in behalf of 33 Negro students who tried to enroll in white schools last month.

Big 3 Trying to Form Plan to Halt Fights

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, Britain and France were said today to be working against a March deadline to develop deterrents to renewed fighting in Palestine.

The focal point of Western concern, officials said, is an area in a demilitarized zone between Syria and Israel on the Jordan River. The spot on the Israeli side of the river, is called Jisr Bnat Yacov.

An Israeli canal at that point is separated from the Jordan River waters by a few hundred feet of unexcavated earth.

Israeli officials have maintained they have a right to enter the demilitarized zone, finish the excavation and tap the Jordan waters for use in the canal. Syria has told the United States it fears a military incident if the Israelis try to do so.

Texarkana Church Woman Succumbs

TEXARKANA (AP) — Mrs. Fred Gantt Sr., wife of an Arkansas Methodist church official, is dead.

The Texarkana matron died last night at a hospital here. Her husband is treasurer of the Little Rock Methodist Conference, governing body of all the denomination's churches in Arkansas south of the Arkansas River.

Other survivors include a son and three sisters.

Funds of Four State Airports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four municipal airports in Arkansas will divide a $314,600 appropriation from the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

The CAA yesterday announced the grants, which must be used to improve the fields.

Adams Field at Little Rock got $120,000. The other grants were for Harrell Field, Camden, $20,000; Conway Municipal Airport $26,000; and Harrison Municipal Airport $18,600.

'Maddog' Irvin Captured on West Coast

By DONALD THACKREY

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — Mass murderer Leslie (Mad Dog) Irvin's own account of his flight from the electric chair disclosed today included a would-be captor only to be trapped by a pawnbroker who thought he was just a common thief.

Irvin, "Chinese execution" slayer of six persons, was captured in a San Francisco pawnshop yesterday while trying to get a loan on two rings he had stolen in Los Angeles.

The pawnbroker because suspicious and called police but detectives were unaware of Irvin's identity until he became impatient with their questioning and blurted out that he was the object of a nationwide manhunt.

Irvin slipped out of the supposedly escape — Prof. Princeton, Ind. just 21 days ago and hitchhiked across nine states with "at least 100 motorists."

Faulkner Families Eligible for Loans

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Twelve Faulkner County families who lost their homes when a storm lashed the area Jan. 28 are eligible for low-interest government loans to help them rebuild.

The state office of the federal Small Business Administration yesterday declared Faulkner County as an official disaster area, making possible the assistance.

Only victims of the storm can qualify for the loans, which can be repaid over 20 years at three per cent interest.

McClellan to Back Oklahoma Dam

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Arkansas backing for Oklahoma's fight to get construction funds for the Eufaula Dam was promised today by Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.).

McClellan said the two states' congressmen "have a real battle on their hands" to get the money but are united to do the job if it's possible.

West Is Going to Build Dam for Egypt

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — The West and not the Soviet Union is going to help Egypt build its vast high dam on the Upper Nile River, the biggest construction project in Egyptian history.

Egypt agreed yesterday to accept a 200-million-dollar loan from the World Bank to help finance the huge construction three miles wide and 300 feet high. With that, the way was eased for the United States and Britain to supply another 200 million dollars in direct grants for the project, expected to cost $1,300,000,000.

Egypt will put up the rest. Western diplomats hailed the agreement as an important victory over the Soviets in the battle for influence in the strategic Middle East. The Russians also had offered to help build the big dam at Aswan, 600 miles up the Nile from Cairo.

Some Egyptian officials saw the agreement as evidence of their government's determination to remain neutral in the East-West cold war.

"We bought our big arms commitment from the Communist bloc last fall," one said. "To balance that we prefer having the West build the high dam."

A joint communique announcing the preliminary agreement was issued by Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser and Eugene Black, American president of the World Bank, after a series of conferences.

Soviet People Told of 'Big' Balloon Catch

By RICHARD K. O'MALLEY

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet press today played up sensational Moscow's charges that American weather balloons "captured" in the U. S. S. R. were shown to be devices for aerial reconnaissance.

The press made no mention of a U. S. note promising to keep the weather balloons away from Soviet airspace.

The official Communist party newspaper, Pravda, and the government paper, Izvestia, devoted five of their six columns on their pages to yesterday's spectacular news conference at Spiridonovka Palace. At that conference the Russians displayed a balloon envelope and equipment and charged that the weather balloons were part of an American "brink of war" policy.

The space was devoted to pictures and accounts of the news conference and carried identical headlines: "About the release by American military organs of balloons into the airspace of the Soviet Union."

All the accounts, although not taken any steps at all to halt the release of balloons, over flights of balloons, particularly those fitted with reconnaissance equipment and displayed here, have lately assumed a wide scope, creating great danger both to air traffic and population."

Soldiers Charged With Staging Brawl

MAEBASHI, Japan (AP) — Four American soldiers — one an Arkansas-placed innocent in Japanese court today to charges of staging a brawl here Sept. 4.

The case precipitated a challenge of the right of foreign courts to try U. S. service personnel. Opponents of the trial are appealing a U. S. Federal Court ruling of Feb. 3 which upheld the validity of the U. S.-Japan administrative agreement under which the men were bound over to the Japanese court.

The four soldiers are Cpl. Walter R. McKenzie of Detroit, Pfc. Kenneth J. Reynolds of McGeehee, Ark., Pfc. Alan May of Chicago and Specialist G.C. Jesse Norkyke of Minneapolis.

The defense contended some of the men had been held because of mistaken identity and that another man, who was not arrested, actually was responsible for the fight in a pinball parlor.

Case swore yesterday he doesn't know the original source of the bills Neff left in an envelope with E. J. Kahler, manager of the Sioux Falls, S. D., Argus-Leader.

Neff had said in a telegram to Case that the South Dakota senator knew "where this campaign fund came from and to whom it was given."

Case testified the committee, that until it finds out where the money came from, neither he nor it can say whether Neff's action was "improper."

Case testified that John Griffin, Sioux Falls druggist who serves as one of his campaign aides, had him that the envelope Kahler turned over to Griffin bore one and possibly two names.

Relating a recent telephone conversation with Griffin, Case said Griffin "used initials, not names" in referring to this. Case said he asked Griffin if he knew "the second party in Kahler's letter — P. W.?"

Two Killed in Gun Battle in Chinatown

BOSTON (AP) — Two men were killed and a third injured in a wild outburst of gunfire in Boston's Chinatown last night.

Police said Fum Lee, 50, former owner of a Chinese restaurant, killed Jim Chin Kai, 50, an assistant secretary of the Chinese Merchants Association and wounded Wong Jayne, 59, Chinatown mayor.

Lee himself was killed by police bullets.

The shootings took place on a balcony of the Chinese Mercantile Building and in one of the conference rooms, as hundreds of persons looked on from the street.

Plastic Balloons Are Harmless

NEW YORK (AP) — The Crusade for Freedom says the plastic balloons it launches in Western Germany are harmless "except as they carry the truth to the captive people behind the Iron Curtain."

Czechoslovakia has told the United Nations the Crusade balloons have been observed over Czech airline routes and that the Czech government is investigating the cause of a recent plane crash that cost 22 lives.

The Crusade issued a statement saying the maximum "payload" of balloon carrying newspapers is eight pounds and that "U. S. civil air regulations specify that balloons loads of 10 pounds or less are no danger to aircraft."

Lot of Trouble for Minor Surgery

OARK, Ala. (AP) — W. D. (Tiny) Conway, who isn't tiny at 741 pounds, is having his difficulties at the hospital again.

The six-foot circus man underwent an appendectomy last October. The incision ruptured Wednesday, so a truck was commandeered to get him to a hospital because of inadequate ambulance accommodations.

Tiny wouldn't fit on the operating table, so he was rolled into the operating room aboard a regulation hospital bed—part of him protruding over the sides.

After minor surgery, the 24-year-old native of Belwood, Pa., is recovering.

Hints Senate Probers Seeking More Authority

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Bridges (R-NH) said today a bipartisan Senate committee might seek broader investigating authority if evidence indicates others besides Sen. Francis Case (R-SD) were offered campaign contributions by backers or opponents of the natural gas bill.

Bridges is secretary of a four-man committee inquiring into whether an improper attempt was made to influence Cases vote on the bill.

Bridges said if other contributions are mentioned, the committee will have to take stock of the situation, since it is now limited to the one matter.

"We might have to go before the Senate and ask for broader authority to look into other cases," he said in an interview. He didn't say whether he expected that to become necessary.

Chairman George (D-Ga.) said the hearing, scheduled to end tonight, may have to be continued next week unless it moves faster today. Meantime the hearing produced a surprise disclosure that a grand jury has summoned John M. Neff, the Lexington, Neb., lawyer, who said he left the $25,000 donation with a friend of Case in a campaign contribution with "no strings attached."

Neff has said he favored the natural gas bill, passed by the Senate Monday, which would exempt producers of natural gas from direct federal utility-type controls. Case said he first favored the bill, then decided to vote against it after the campaign fun offer from a supporter of the measure.

Charles W. Steadman, counsel for the special committee, said Neff has been summoned by grand jury. He gave no other details.

Case swore yesterday he doesn't know the original source of the bills Neff left in an envelope with E. J. Kahler, manager of the Sioux Falls, S. D., Argus-Leader.

Neff had said in a telegram to Case that the South Dakota senator knew "where this campaign fund came from and to whom it was given."

Case testified the committee, that until it finds out where the money came from, neither he nor it can say whether Neff's action was "improper."

Case testified that John Griffin, Sioux Falls druggist who serves as one of his campaign aides, had him that the envelope Kahler turned over to Griffin bore one and possibly two names.

Sunday School Lesson

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

Does God play favorites? I ask the question in all seriousness as it has much to do with our conception of prayer, and practice of praying.

The question was forcefully suggested to my mind some years ago.

I was traveling with a young aviator who had returned to his home in Canada, badly broken in health, after having flown in combat during the greater part of World War I. He had been through all manner of perilous adventures, and was the only man left of his original squadron. All the others were either dead or prisoners. His commanding officer had said to him: "You'll never be killed in the air." He seemed to have a charmed life.

When I asked him how he accounted for such an experience he replied, shyly: "I guess someone at home was praying."

I knew that boy's mother, a supremely good woman. Her prayers surely would prevail with God. If anybody's could. Nevertheless the incident set me thinking about prayer as I had never quite thought about it before.

What about those other boys, who went down to death in flaming planes? Was there no mother praying at home for them? Did God care? Or did He protect only those for whom someone prayed?

There is, of course, the larger question of all Providence concerning life and death—the mysteries that seem to have no answer. But about prayer, it seemed to me that there must be something more than the fact that "someone at home was praying."

I think I found a partial answer in the young man himself. His, in a sense, was a dedicated life. A young dentist, he had gone overseas in the Army dental service. He didn't need to do anything else to do his part in the war. But with no girl and nobody dependent upon him he went into the R. A. F., in the belief that the Air Force was the most dangerous service, and he could give his life if need be. Afterward, he said, he "took off his hat to the men in the trenches."

In the midst of telling me of some of his escapes he said a strange thing: "Flying gives you a great feeling of confidence. I think in a measure it was a clue to what happened to him."

We are apt to forget that all the promises concerning prayer are in the background of a dedicated life. So many people think of prayer as a method of persuading God to do something that He would not otherwise do.

There seems a certain justification for this in the Parable of the Importunate Widow in Luke 18; but over against this one must put the pain words of Jesus in Matthew 6:5-15, especially verse 8. The point of the Parable in Luke 18 is not that God is like that unjust judge, moved by importunity, but that as a just and loving God He reveals His will to those who earnestly seek Him.

Prayer is a life, a relationship, and not just a matter of formal words and requests. Prayer, to paraphrase the aviator's words, can give us "a great feeling of confidence."

The greatest and deepest of all petitions in the records of prayer is in the words of the Master: "Nevertheless not My will, but Thine, be done."

Ex-Officer Kills Three in Family

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A check of family friends failed to uncover today any specific reason why a 71-year-old retired detective suddenly killed three members of his family and critically wounded another and himself.

Police said Henry Sieckhaus, 71, had been ill. Two days before he had told a long-time friend, "This weather makes you blue."

The dead were Police Cpl. Lester Sieckhaus, 47, a son; the son's wife Marie, 47; and Mrs. Amelia Sieckhaus, 70, the veteran officer's wife.

Sieckhaus was reported in critical condition at City Hospital today. Also critical was Mrs. Mary Dreher, 80, mother of Mrs. Lester Sieckhaus.

The younger Mrs. Sieckhaus had planned to entertain her mother-in-law at her apartment. Card tables were ready. A roast was cooking in the oven. Her three children, ranging in age from 11 to 17, were in school.

Mrs. Dreher's friends began arriving as police removed the bodies.

The son was shot behind one ear as he read a newspaper. The others were shot as they ran to investigate the noise.

Friends of the family said they had been told the elder Sieckhaus had been acting strangely. Members of the family had to disarm him recently.

He Could Have Saved Advice—Folks Who Have Little Ones Know They Are Expensive

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

That it costs a family with an annual income of $8,500 about $800 to bring a baby in to the world, including the cigars the proud papa passes around.

That it costs—according to a Redbook Magazine Survey—$7,000 merely to feed a child during its first 18 years. What do kids eat today anyway—orchids?

That in 1932 the Polish Olympic team ran up the 1860 steps in the 102-floor Empire State Building in 21 minutes flat. Russia, of course, will beat the record—just as soon as it builds a skyscraper that tall.

That the number of girl "office boys" has tripled since 1940.

That while industry prefers women office workers, men still held 354,000 of the 390,000 federal government's clerical posts as recently as 1950.

That Britain has lost its beef-eating tradition to America, where the average citizen ate 160 pounds during 1955.

That it took an industrial worker 49 minutes to earn the price of a pound of round steak here in 1929. Today he does it in half an hour. But don't let your butcher know this—you have enough trouble with him already.

That A. H. Berwald 73-year-old pencil manufacturer, sits his pencil leads by leaning out his 10th floor office window and dropping them to the sidewalk. Incidentally, pencils will not only write well when submerged in molasses. Try it and see.

That a pencil has been developed that will even write on your gums. Dentists use them.

That despite all the new labor-saving business machines that have been invented, there is still a shortage of 600,000 office workers in the United States.

That many modern roads in France follow the old routes of Napoleon's military campaigns.

That there is no tide in the Mediterranean. I have those on the authority of the French government tourist office, which didn't bother to explain why.

That Jane Froman, the singer, is allergic to ostrich feathers.

That opera star Blanche Thebom believes more American wives learn about culture from their husbands than vice versa. Now if a mere man said a thin like that he'd be denounced as an unbearable male prig.

That a recent comic book style treatment of "The Story of Jesus" sold half a million copies in two weeks, believed to be an all-time record for any so-called "comic book."

That Hildegrade, veteran performer though she is, still recites the prayer of St. Francis of Assisi just before going out to face a new audience.

That while more men than women suffer from heart attacks, fewer men are hospitalized for mental disorders.

That few people can name off-hand the only one of New York City's five boroughs that is actually on the mainland of the United States. It's the Bronx.

That a feeble-minded person can become insane, but a normal adult person through his mental condition may deteriorate, never actually becoming "feeble-minded."

That the "coffee break," so popular with office workers today, originated in Turkey, where the first coffee house opened in 1554.

Although only 63 per cent of American families live in single family homes, 90 per cent of all home accidents occur in such homes.

India imported 730,000 tons of food grains in 1955 compared to 4,725,000 tons in 1951.

Would Halt Delinquent Films Abroad

By OB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Ray Milland said today that Hollywood films about juvenile delinquency are doing the United States great harm in Europe.

He urged that such films not be exported.

Milland voiced an opinion that is seldom heard in Hollywood. Most spokesmen here declare that limiting exports would interfere with "freedom of the screen." They argue that films depicting social injustices here demonstrate to foreign lands that the United States is a democracy because it can criticize itself.

"Certainly I believe in freedom of the screen," said Milland. "But I don't bly in abus of hatcmbrwyl freedom."

The Oscar-winning actor just returned from Portugal, where he

Foundation For Marriage as Sound as a Rock

Dear Miss Dix: Recent articles

I have read on the subject of financial security in marriage have me greatly troubled. I am in the United States Navy and have another 18 months to serve. I have been engaged for a year and our wedding date is set for September.

Now for the difficulties. I have no job awaiting me when I leave the service, but my girl and I expect to have $3,000 saved between us by the time I get out. By trade I am a baker. Do you think our foundation is too insecure? E. L.

Answer: On the contrary, you are remarkably solvent. On the facts and figures presented, you should have no financial problems to block your happiness. You and your fiancée have planned carefully, you have a good, substantial trade which will prosper as long as folks eat, so shove the qualms overboard.

The articles that have upset you probably deal with very young people who have no money saved, no trade or training and no job in sight. Sometimes the problem is complicated still further by a young man who has never been able to hold a job. He is the greatest matrimonial risk. The desire and ability to support a family is the number one requirement of a produced, directed and starred in "Lisbon." He said his talks with Europeans during his journeys appalled him.

"Wherever I went—Lisbon, Athens, Rome, London—I heard the same things from people," he said. "They think all American children are delinquents. This impression comes from three Hollywood pictures—'Rebel Without a Cause' James Dean, 'Blackboard Jungle' Glenn Ford and 'The Wild One' Marlon Brando."

"I try to explain to them that those pictures show only isolated cases of juvenile delinquency. But they don't understand that. They see it up on the screen, so they think it must be true."

"Is this the way to make friends? We pour billions of dollars into Europe and then ruin their opinion of us by a few pictures. Naturally they want to believe those destructive views of us because they are envious of our prosperity."

Milland said he realizes the problem of juvenile delinquency in this country. "We should make pictures about it, to show ourselves what is going on. But we shouldn't send the pictures abroad to make enemies for us. Can you imagine the Communists making films about their juvenile delinquents and sending them abroad?"

Ike Anxious to Prevent Middle East Trouble

By DONALD J. GONZALES
WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower declared today that he will do everything within his constitutional powers to prevent an outbreak of hostilities in the Middle East.

Mr. Eisenhower also told his news conference there is always a faint hope that his correspondence with Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin may develop something of peace value.

This possibility exists, the President said, as long as his exchanges with Bulganin are what he described as non-bitter.

The President's determination to do everything possible to avert further conflict in the Middle East was expressed when a reporter asked him for an assessment of stopping or avoiding conflict as a result of his talks with British Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden.

The President noted that U.S. British and French diplomats will meet at the State Department this afternoon to determine what measures can be taken in the Middle East either inside or outside the United Nations.

Mr. Eisenhower then said that everything he could do constitutionally to prevent an outbreak of hostilities in the Middle East would be done.

He did not elaborate, but some observers believed that he thus left the way open for strong action, apparently including military force if necessary.

There have been unconfirmed reports that the administration might ask Congress for standby authority to use force in the Middle East Arab-Israeli crisis. But this possibility is not under active consideration at this time.

Administration officials said earlier that the U.S., British and French diplomats meeting this afternoon will consider quick use of United Nations machinery and possible military and economic sanctions to counter any large-scale hostilities in the Arab-Israeli dispute.

Just a Corpse at Twilight

CHAPTER XXIII

I was half finished with breakfast when Al Purdy, of the Welfare Commission, walked in. He told me that Van Horn wanted to perform the autopsy on Osborn today, instead of tomorrow, when he had another P. M. scheduled.

"All right. Did O'Connor say anything about getting a paper I sent him?"

"No."

"He'll probably get it in the morning, then. Listen, Al, I told him quickly about what had happened since my first visit to the village of Beech Tree on Friday afternoon. When I had finished, I turned my head so that he could see the small bandage on the back of my neck. 'That's where he nicked me.'"

"Yipes," Al breathed. "That's getting pretty personal."

"Yes," I agreed.

"What're you going to do?"

"I don't know yet. The sheriff in Beech Tree is making passes at it, but I'm afraid his heart isn't in it. I'm going up there this morning."

"Want me to go along?"

I shook my head. "Thanks, Al, but there's nothing you can do, maybe nothing that anyone can do. But I've got to take a stab at it. 'Take care of yourself, Jim.' He put on his hat and cocked it over one eye. 'See you tonight?'"

"Yes, but I don't know when. If the autopsy is late, I may not get home until nine or ten, maybe later. And then I'll have to write a report for O'Connor."

"If you need me, pass the word. I'm starting at Allegheny Tool, on the south side. Three claims to check—probably take me until noon. You can trace me from there."

It wasn't until I'd reached the Winchester Inn and was about to turn into the drive that I declared to talk to Sheriff Abner Cornwallis again. Something had been working in the back of my mind.

A man in overalls was putting a new lock on the office door. The sheriff was behind his desk fiddling with a screwdriver at one of the drawers. When he saw me he laid the screwdriver aside, lowered his thick black brows and peered at me closely, taking in my blue suit and my cordovan shoes, which were shined for a change. A white stubble of beard showed on his leathery cheeks and his mean little eyes were bloodshot.

"My, my," he said sneeringly, "ain't we all prettied up."

"Were going to a funeral, aren't we?"

"Oh, yeah. I almost forgot. He sighed and pulled a hand down over his face, it made a faint rasping sound against the white bristles. "I'll have to shave and put on a clean shirt, I guess."

He picked up the screwdriver and prodded viciously at the lock on the desk drawer. "Gotta have a new lock here, too."

"Did you get any prints?"

"Prints?" His expression was outraged. "How can I get any prints without the equipment? The county don't even have appropriate enough to pay me a living wage or give my prisoners a square meal. Anyhow, what good would fingerprints be?"

"They're routine in most departments," I murmured.

"Blah."

The fat man by the door said, "She's all set, Abner. I've gotta do some work for Maude Dorn now, but I'll fix that desk lock tomorrow."

"All right, Lew."

The fat man picked up his tool box and left.

"They won't even buy me a secondhand safe," the sheriff said morosely. "I got to keep important evidence in my desk, and see what happened."

"What'll you do now?"

He banged the desk with a fist. "I'll tell you what I'm going to do. I'm going to question everybody connected with this mess—gilly 'em and search 'em."

I said curiously, "And who would they be?"

He held up a thin mottled hand and began to count on the fingers. "Miss Lucy Dorn, Mr. Wilbur Tweed, Doc Jarrett. . . . He paused, shifted his sly gaze from his fingers to me. "And Mr. James Bennett."

I was startled. "Me?"

"You're darn right. For a stranger."

natra packmaster.

Webb settled in a loge and happily prepared to watch himself on the screen for the next 103 minutes. He commented that such events as this one are the usual custom with him.

"But usually I have a much bigger crowd," he said, going at the 75 guests. "That's because people are working; I usually show my pictures on Saturday nights."

But what happens if his guests don't like the picture?

"Nothing can be done; it's in the can. Besides, they always use superlatives in referring to my performance."

The film was unrolled; it's the fascinating story of how British intelligence fooled the Nazis by planting false invasion papers on a body which was washed ashore in Spain. When the lights went on again, Bogart established a counter and others follow suit. Meanwhile, Webb accepted congratulations of a score or more of intimate friends. "It was a marvelous picture, darling," they enthused.

"Yes, wasn't it?" he replied. And so Hollywood's first exclusive premiere lapsed into history.

Opponents of AP&L Hike Take Stand

By LEON HATCH

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A consulting engineer testified today that Arkansas Power & Light Co.'s wholesale rates to rural electric co-operatives would be increased by 40 to 50 per cent if the company is allowed a fuel adjustment clause.

A fuel adjustment clause is a device by which increases — or decreases — in cost of natural gas used to generate electricity are passed on to the buyer of power.

Testifying in the Public Service Commission on AP&L's application for a $5,200,000-a-year permanent rate increase, William F. Ruman, of Kansas City said he didn't think co-ops should have to pay more for their power. He suggested that perhaps co-ops even deserved a decrease.

Ruman, a member of the staff of Burns and McDonnell, was the final witness in the current phase of the hearing.

After he finished, the hearing was recessed until Feb. 20 when witnesses who testified against the proposed increase will undergo cross-examination by AP&L lawyers.

Most co-ops are buying AP&L power under 10-year contracts which do not expire until five to 10 years from now.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Opponents of a new rate increase sought by the Arkansas Power & Light Co., were to present one more witness this morning before a 10-day recess is called by the state Public Service Commission in its hearing on the request.

The recess will allow AP&L attorneys to prepare for cross-examination of witnesses.

Yesterday the PSC heard two utility experts testify that AP&L has no need for the $5,200,000 which it is attempting to add to its annual permanent rate base.

Dr. Henry W. Blalock Sr., of Silver Springs, Md., charged that the big utility earned 7.91 per cent last year on its permanent rates, and has netted more than six per cent annually since 1948.

Dr. Blalock testified for the Arkansas State Electric Co-operatives, Inc., an organization of the state's 18 rural electric co-ops, which is opposing the proposed rate boost.

Dr. Lawrence S. Knappen of Washington, testifying for the city of Little Rock, told the PSC that AP&L needs only a 4.59 return to maintain its credit standing.

AP&L witnesses have contended that the company faces a financial crisis unless it gets the full amount it is seeking. The $5,200,000 still will leave the firm's earnings a fraction short of six per cent, they say.

A six per cent return traditionally has been fixed by the PSC as a fair profit for regulated public utilities.

AP&L is seeking to add one million dollars a year to a temporary $4,200,000 boost it has been collecting under bond since July, 1954. The PSC has rejected the larger increase, but AP&L has appealed to the Arkansas Supreme Court, where the case is pending.

Green Mammoth Tea At BeeBee Sunday

The BeeBee Memorial C. M. E. Church basement will be the scene of a very colorful event, Sunday, February 12, from 4 till 6 p. m. Much work and preparation have been put forth in the last two weeks to make the Green Mammoth Tea a success.

Five auxiliaries of the church will sponsor a table and the idea is that no silver will be handled during the two hour period. All registrations and contributions will be in the form of a dollar bill (green).

Mrs. Edna Spearman and the senior choir of the BeeBee have planned some interesting musical entertainment at intervals, during the Tea.

The sponsoring clubs of the church are: Stewards Board, Mr. R. D. George, President; Senior Choir, Mrs. Persie Turner, President; Sunday School, Mrs. Anna Bell Yorgor, Superintendent; Missionary Society, Mrs. Effie G. George, President and the Stewardess Board, Mrs. Jessie Hamilton serving as special Chairman. Many out of town visitors are expected to attend this gala affair. Each club of the church has passed out invitations to the Tea, but any one wishing to attend may register at the Tea Sunday.

The Angelic Gospel Singers of Philadelphia, Pa., and the Humming Bees of Texarkana will render a program at Bethel A. M. E. Church, Monday February 13 at 7:30 p. m. Admission adults, advance $1.00, at door, $1.25. Children advance, 50c, at door 65c. Tickets on sale at Hicks Funeral Home, Nelson's Grocery, Greenleaf Cafe and Shover Street Dinette.

Garrett Chapel Baptist Church To Have Mission Service Sunday February 12 is General Mission Day at Garrett Chapel Baptist Church.

The Matrons Society will be in charge of the program, Mrs. Margaret N. Williams will read a Paper, "The Matron's Place in Christian Society."

Rev. B. W. Carter will preach the special sermon. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Federated Club To Meet

The Anna P. Strong Club will hold its regular meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in the home of Mrs. J. W. McWashington. All members are urged to be present and on time.

Clifton Webb Has Premier for Friends

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The movie capital, which has seen all kinds of premieres, saw a new one this week: an "exclusive premiere" for Clifton Webb's friends.

During most of his Hollywood career, Webb has gifted his chums with private screenings of his films. This week he asked them to see his latest, "The Man Who Never Was." For fear the event might go unnoticed by the public, his studio invited newsmen, photographers and a scattering of press to attend the so-called exclusive premiere.

Oh, it was very chic. Clifton was there at the door of the projection room to plant a kiss on the cheek of pals like Barbara Stanwyck, Marlene Dietrich and Dorothy McGuire. Others paying homage to the star were Van Johnson, Jeanne Crain, Patricia Morrison, old-time star Richard Barthelmess.

Jeffrey Hunter, clad in cowboy duds, arrived from a nearby stage where he was filming night scenes for a Western. The self-styled Holmby Hills Rat Pack came in the club's hot rod. Don mother Laura secured hubby Humphrey Bogart rat in charge of public relations and Frank Sinatra.

There is nothing on the TV set on Friday evening at 8:30 p. m. Eastern time that compares with it in stimulating entertainment value. Revived two weeks ago tonight, it has presented in two parts a dramatization of Aldous Huxley's novel "Brave New World" a satire on a perfect scientific society of the future.

Tonight it presents a dramatization of George Stewart's "Storm," an excellent novel whose protagonist actually is a storm itself. Unfortunately the pressures of sponsored time on CBS confine Columbia Workshop to half an hour.

Two bright young men who cut their wisdom teeth on the program in years past guide its destinies today. They are Howard G. Barnes, CBS radio vice president in charge of network programs here, and Guy della Cioppa, his counterpart in Hollywood.

"We want to break new frontiers in the area of ideas," says Barnes. "We are thinking in terms of a theater of the mind."

Technically, Barnes points out, the only new thing in radio is "tape." And that, of course, is the scientifically perfected means of recording sound. Great technical strides have been made in it since radios earlier days. Columbia Workshop is wisely making full use of it realizing that a great dramatic impact can be achieved by the auditory senses—as great, say some enthusiasts as the visual sense utilized by television.

On tape sound can be captured, mixed, changed until tricks are played with time and even tonality itself is changed. This is the technical innovation which Columbia Workshop is utilizing fully. More important, however, is its bold free use of ideas which are naturally adaptable to radio and probably never can be achieved by television. Tonight's dramatization of "Storm," for example, is too big in scope and concept ever to be undertaken by television.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By JOE STETSON
Dog Editor

"I don't know what he comes from, but he makes a swell squirrel dog," said Don, describing the little mongrel that took its place at the fireside with his two purebred dogs.

With enthusiasm he was telling a story that is repeated over and over again in dogdom. We take great pains to breed specialists for certain jobs and they are usually the ones which perform most satisfactorily, but every now and then we find a dog doing a good job at a vocation his breed fanciers never intended—and cross-bred dogs fill the bill in many places.

Old readers will remember the story of Rosie, the Airedale who quartered industriously, pointed, located cripples with surprising efficiency and retrieved to hand.

The other day I was reminded of it when someone asked where to buy a beagle pup, but prefaced the question with: "We use our boxer to flush pheasants, but we'd like to get a good hound for rabbits."

Many a farm lad has done his first shooting with the old farm collie by his side and thousands of little feist dogs with big hearts do their variegated jobs with a vengeance.

One of my Maine friends has a springer. Yes — it's a silent trailer, but its barks tread on a raccoon. Not a dog to listen to for a good hour's race or to tear through the pitch dark woods after with trip hammer heart, but a pelt getter seldom surpassed.

Every now and then someone comes up with a pointing retriever. A few years ago I received a series of pictures of a Labrador definitely on point. Recently a golden owner wanted to know if the pointing instinct of his pointing golden would be intensified by breeding him to a bitch that pointed — if he could find one.

True — we expect to find certain well-developed hunting characteristics in the breeds which we have produced for certain special purposes, but don't be too surprised at the places where you'll occasionally find talent.

Above all never say no when a youngster asks if his dog will hunt. There is only one way to find out — take him out and try it.
